CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. The highest Bidder to be the Buyer, and if any dispute arises between two or more Bidders, the Lot so in dispute shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

2. The Auctioneer reserves the right to reject any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance, and therefore, in his judgment, likely to affect the Sale injuriously.

3. The Purchasers to give their names and addresses, and to pay down a cash deposit, or the whole of the Purchase-money, if required, in default of which the Lot or Lots so purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold.

4. The Lots to be taken away at the Buyer's Expense and Risk within twenty-four hours from the conclusion of the Sale, unless otherwise specified by the Auctioneer or Managers previous to or at the time of Sale, and the remainder of the Purchase-money to be absolutely paid, or otherwise settled for to the satisfaction of the Auctioneer, on or before delivery; in default of which the undersigned will not hold themselves responsible if the lots be lost, stolen, damaged, or destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser.

5. While the undersigned will not hold themselves responsible for the correctness of the description, genuineness, or authenticity of, or any fault or defect in, any Lot, and make no Warranty whatever, they will, upon receiving previous to date of Sale trustworthy expert opinion in writing that any Painting or other Work of Art is not what it is represented to be, use every effort on their part to furnish proof to the contrary; failing in which, the object or objects in question will be sold subject to the declaration of the aforesaid expert, he being liable to the Owner or Owners thereof for damage or injury occasioned thereby.

6. To prevent inaccuracy in delivery, and inconvenience in the settlement of the Purchases, no Lot can, on any account, be removed during the Sale.

7. Upon failure to comply with the above conditions, the money deposited in part payment shall be forfeited; all Lots uncleared within one day from conclusion of Sale (unless otherwise specified as above) shall be re-sold by public or private sale, without further notice, and the deficiency (if any) attending such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulter at this Sale, together with all charges attending the same. This Condition is without prejudice to the right of the Auctioneer to enforce the contract made at this Sale, without such re-sale, if he thinks fit.

8. The Undersigned are in no manner connected with the business of the cartage or packing and shipping of purchases, and although they will afford to purchasers every facility for employing careful carriers and packers, they will not hold themselves responsible for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such services.

GIROLAMO INDUNO

ITALIAN

(1827-)

WAITING FOR THE RENDEZVOUS

Height, 12½ inches ; Width, 9¼ inches.

ON a garden terrace, at the right of the composition, a young lady is seated on a stone bench, leaning her back against a pale-red brick wall, on the stone coping of which rest her elbows. She has removed her straw hat and laid it on a black shawl, decorated with blue and red flowers and green leaves, meanwhile shading her head with a lavender-pink parasol. The sun shines lustroously on her creamy satin gown, from under which project her crossed feet, in white satin shoes and pink silk stockings. A mass of deep green foliage appears beyond the wall.

Signed at the lower right : INDUNO.

LANDSCAPE WITH WINDMILL

Height, 7 inches; Length, 13½ inches.

PANEL

AN elevation of sandy soil on the left of the foreground is crowned with two oaks which stand in advance of a wood. On the right is a corresponding wooded slope, under the bank of which a man sits talking to two children, who stand in the road beside a dog. The roadway winds back across a heath to a windmill, which forms a conspicuous object in the middle distance. It is flanked by two white-walled cottages with mossy-green roofs, which are embowered in trees. In the distance toward the left is an expanse of water, dotted with sails. It is obscured from view on the right by a low, level grassy hill. Over the horizon extends a layer of creamy clouds, above which spreads a broader mass of dove-gray vapor, tipped with cream.

Signed at the lower right : E. MARILHAT.

GEORGES BRILLOUIN

FRENCH

A DUET

Height, 10½ inches ; Width, 8¼ inches.

PANEL

WHILE an old gentleman tips his seat forward and bends close over his music-rest, extracting melody from a violin, his white and tan hound lifts up his head and howls. The man's figure is back to us, clad in blue stockings and breeches, a long skirted coat of dull red velvet and a white woollen skull cap. The latter is seen against a dark, rococo decorated cupboard beside which hangs a guitar. At the left of the foreground an empty violin case and music books lie beside a white chair upholstered in rose, back of which stands a spinet. On the wall hangs an oval gilt-framed portrait of a lady with powdered hair.

Signed at the lower right, GEORGES BRILLOUIN.

HENRY FARRER

AMERICAN

(1843-1903)

SPRINGTIME

Height, 12 inches ; Length, 18 inches.

WATER COLOR

A BROOK, whitened by the cool light, winds through the foreground of pale mossy grass. Over on the left the meadow is sprinkled with dull reddish-purple bushes, beyond which extends a spinney, sparsely fledged with yellow and orange leafage. On the right of the composition are other trees, almost bare of foliage. In the central distance appear faint indications of two cottages, seen against a low lavender-colored hill which lies under a white horizon.

Signed and dated at the lower left, H. FARRER, 1899.

THE EVENING HOUR

Height, 16 inches ; Width, 13 inches.

PANEL

THE apartment is penetrated with olive-brown half-shadows, the light being concentrated on a table at the left, where a lamp with red shade is burning. It floods with its glow some objects that strew the table: a statuette of the Venus de Milo, a blue ginger jar, a candlestick, teapot, platters and books. It also illuminates the figure of a lady, who sits beside the table stitching a lace handkerchief. She is dressed in a negligee, the creamy hue of which reflects in the lighted parts the rose of the lamp shade and in the shadowed parts the olive tints of the wall. Her feet repose on a Persian rug and the top of an escritoire shows behind her head.

Signed and dated at the lower right, VICTOR LECOMTE, 1889.

MORNING IN CAIRO

Height, 16¼ inches ; Width, 12¼ inches.

THE scene presents the perspective of a street in Cairo. Across the middle distance hangs a brownish-red awning, seen against white buildings. These are over-topped by a minaret, the greenish roofs of which spire up into the blue sky. A camel and its rider are approaching from the distance. The foreground is bordered on the right by a façade of white and pink masonry in horizontal stripes, and by another whose bare white surface, stained with weather, is pierced at the top by a row of small windows and lower down has two projecting balconies, screened with jalousies. In a stall on the street level a man is chaffering with a buyer who is wrapped in a red and white striped cloak. Near him stands a figure in black, bearing on its head a tray of oranges, while to the right four hooded and cloaked men are seated beside a pile of oranges and melons.

Signed at the lower right, BERCHÈRE.

FRANCIA

ITALIAN, SCHOOL OF BOLOGNA

(1450-1518)

PORTRAIT OF THE COUNT ODERICO POPOLI

Height, 16½ inches ; Width, 13½ inches.

PANEL

THE portrait shows the head and bust of a young man in armor facing three-quarters to the left, while the eyes are turned toward the right. The head is covered with a close crop of golden-brown hair, and the complexion is a rich tan with warm red cheeks. The eyebrows are delicately pencilled, the nose is straight, the upper lip sensitively curved and the lower somewhat full, but both are firmly set together. The narrow white edge of a shirt shows above the gorget, and the upper and lower parts of the plastron are joined across the chest by a twisted border. The right hand, held near the right shoulder, grasps a staff, while the left shoulder is draped with a dull brown cloak. The figure is disposed against a dark olive-black background.

An inscription on the back of the canvas reads, "Ritrato del CONTE ODERICO POPOLI, Dipinto de FRANCESCO FRANCIA."

POMPEIAN GIRLS AT A SHRINE

Height, 16 inches ; Width, 10¼ inches.

PANEL

THE wall of the chamber is decorated with panels of Pompeian design, and a garland of flowers swings from it to the ceiling. At the left is a little shrine consisting of a pediment supported on Ionic columns. Within it appear a small bronze-seated figure and two still smaller standing ones. The whole is mounted on a base colored red, in front of which is a tripod altar. Into this a young girl in a yellow robe, draped below the waist with dove-gray, is sprinkling incense. A companion, robed in red, with a drapery of creamy-gray bordered with gold, holds an offering of flowers, while a third appears to be scattering flowers upon the floor. Behind these figures appears the head of a fourth.

CURIOSITY

Height, 14½ inches ; Length, 17½ inches.

WATER COLOR

THREE kittens are seated in a row, a fluffy white between two tortoise shells, intently watching a June bug. The insect appears over the top edge of a cardboard cube, which rests on a leather-bound book, upon which also lies a quill pen. A letter protrudes from beneath the book.

AN ADVANCED PICKET

Height, 5½ inches ; Length, 9¼ inches.

PANEL

THE advanced pickets of a regiment of French infantry have occupied an apple orchard, which slopes up from the foreground. Here a soldier is seated with his cap in his hands, looking up at a bugler who stands with the butt of his rifle resting on the ground. To the left of them is a hastily constructed rifle pit. In the distance, at the top of the slope, a sentinel appears, near three comrades whose bodies only are visible over the edge of the ground.

FACHEUX CONTRETEMPS

Height, 8½ inches ; Width, 6½ inches.

PANEL

IN a violent storm a curé, on his return home from marketing, stands on the outside of the closed door of his rectory, much perplexed at being unable to fit his key to the entrance door, and is trying to pry some obstacle from the key. He has his back to the wind, which is driving the sheets of rain and agitating the loose ends of his cincture. Beside him on the ground lies an old-fashioned carpet-bag trunk, which from its bulging sides seems to be well filled with the good things of his quest, while a loaf of sugar, in its blue wrapping paper, rests against the door post.

THE MONASTERY COOK

Height, 11¼ inches ; Width, 9½ inches.

A LAY brother stands licking a wooden spoon, as he savors the jam which has been cooking in a copper stew-pot. This rests on a raised stone slab in which is a depression filled with glowing embers. Over his brown habit the brother wears a bibbed apron with a hole in it. His face is rosy and wrinkled, the chin whitened with beard-growth, while grizzled curls protrude over his ears from under a white cap.

PAPA'S TOILET

Height, 11½ inches ; Length, 15½ inches.

PANEL

IN a Spanish patio, decorated with a vine pergola that is supported on caryatid posts, a bull-fighter is completing his toilet. He is assisted by his daughter, who, while she holds the long ends of the rose-colored sash which is around her father's body, turns an inviting smile to a young man standing at her side. Dressed in a sort of Albanian costume, consisting of white jacket and skirt, he bends forward as if to whisper to the girl, whose figure presents a charming picture in its dainty blue gown, partly covered with a flower-sprigged apron.

DEPARTURE OF THE ESPADA

Height, 15¾ inches ; Width, 12½ inches.

PANEL

As an Espada stands lighting a cigarette preparatory to his departure for the Corrida de Toros, a young girl looks at him admiringly. Clad in salmon-pink skirt and a black shawl embroidered in roses and green leaves, she waits beside the doorway, holding his two swords. The man is resplendent in a lavender plum-colored coat and breeches, decorated with silver galloon. His cloak, of a beautiful old-rose hue, lies over a chair, beside a table on which are a box of cigars and a cordial bottle.

THE INTRUDERS

Height, 10¾ inches ; Length, 14¾ inches.

MILL-BOARD

THE composition centers around a small pool which is bounded on three sides by steep banks covered with shrubs and vines. Two horses stand in the water, a white one holding its head over the back of a bay which is drinking. Meanwhile their intrusion is being resented by a drake which is quacking in the foreground and by seven ducks which raise a chorus of protest on the right bank. A streak of yellow light crosses the meadow at the back of the scene.

Height, 9½ inches; Length, 13 inches.

PANEL

A CAVALIER stands wiping his rapier, as he looks down upon the form of his enemy stretched, with grasped rapier, on the floor. The body lies on its back, beside a four-post bed with dull yellow hangings. Two King Charles spaniels are timidly sniffing at the face of the dead man, their little bodies being seen against the white cloth of a table on which rest a flagon, glasses and fruit. In the shadow of the chamber, on the right, a lady's figure is seen in collapse near a fallen stool. The costumes of the men belong to the trunks and hose period of the seventeenth century.

THE RENDEZVOUS

Height, 16¼ inches ; Width, 12¾ inches.

THICK foliage forms a screen on each side of a high iron gate at the back of the scene. Behind its bars appears the figure of a lady, toward whom a cavalier is approaching on foot, while his horse, a chestnut with flowing mane and tail, waits at his back. The gentleman, clad in a golden-yellow costume, bends forward with a sweep of his black beaver. In the foreground the turf is scattered with large green leaves and grayish flowers or dandelion puffs. On the right of it, facing the spectator, sit two black, tan and fawn-colored grayhounds.

PICCOLO CANALE, SAN TROVASO, VENEZIA

Height, 16½ inches; Width, 10¼ inches.

THE Little Canal, which is near the Academy of Fine Arts, on the south of the Grand Canal, leads back from the foreground. On the left of it lies a boat in the bow of which stands a woman, while its large yellow sail hides half of the arch of a bridge that spans the water in the middle distance. It leads from a quay on the right of the foreground, where two women carrying buckets have met, and a third, draped in a black shawl and holding a red fan, is coming toward the front. In the background, interspersed with some masses of green foliage, is a perspective of white houses with brown-tiled roofs, above which the cupola of San Trovaso rises against the sky.

AN ORIENTAL BAZAAR

Height, 10½ inches ; Length, 13¾ inches.

A CORNER, formed by the meeting at right angles of two rows of Oriental buildings, is filled with the variegated animation of buyers and sellers. Along the façade on the left are fastened three horses whose tails are toward the spectator, while a fourth stands sideways. A man is dilating on his good points to a prospective purchaser, who is clad in a yellowish costume. Over toward the right of the scene another bargain is being discussed, as a man in buff expatiates on the merits of a bay horse with dun mane and tail to a companion, whose back, turned to us, is wrapped in a lavender-colored cloak. Farther to the right a Nubian attracts the attention of a knot of bystanders by his dancing and gesticulations with a tambourine. Nearer the foreground, on this side, a man presides over a heap of green melons and lemons.

THE LITTLE HOUSEWIFE

Height, 14 inches ; Width, 10½ inches.

PANEL

As the sun streams through a cottage window on to a table set with two rush-bottomed chairs and preparations for déjeuner, a little girl stands slicing bread into a soup tureen. The light falls on her fair hair and the bosom of her blue and white striped dress. Behind her a few little pictures spot the luminous greenish-drab wall, and add an artistic tone to this humble Brittany interior. On the left is a cook stove, with its tall pipe, and near the latter hang a salt box and ladle, while a cauldron rests on the floor. In the background on a shelf is a tankard, several bottles and other utensils.

AN interesting early example of a master, recently deceased, who to the present generation is better known for his marine subjects. The scene is that of a studio, the walls of which are a dull red, browned with shadow. Meanwhile in the center of the room the light falls on two easels and two men seated side by side in front of them. The farther one, in his shirt sleeves and a black vest and trousers, is playing a violin, while his companion, dressed in white nankeen trousers and a black swallow-tail coat is accompanying on the 'cello. Over the back of this man's chair hangs a red apron which adds a note of color to the composition.

FROM the center of the foreground juts back a wooden bulkhead, which is paralleled by another on the left, the two forming the entrance to a harbor. At the extremity of the left-hand staging rises a small tower-shaped light-house. Over it flies a French flag, which is straining at the halyard attached to a flag-pole on the central bulkhead. Around its base is a group of figures, and another appears farther back. The outside water, on the right, agitated by the wind, is rocking some sailboats. They are discernible in the shadow of a slaty-drab cloud, shot with gold, across which two gulls are flying. A third is seen against the upper blue, beneath which, over the center of the horizon, lies a cloud-mass of rosy cream.

Two infantry soldiers of Napoleon's army have arrived in a village to requisition quarters. They have presented the official billeting paper to an old man in a short red jacket who is trying to decipher its contents. His barrow is beside him containing a wooden rake and two copper milk cans. Above him spread the boughs of an apple tree sprinkled with fruit. In the meantime one of the soldiers has removed his shako and is mopping his head while the other stolidly awaits results. Behind the group is a small pool, on the far side of which appear a yellowish-pink plastered cottage with a high thatched roof and an adjoining barn of pink brick.

Height, 16 inches ; Length, 28½ inches.

PANEL

THE scene, in the neighborhood of the village of Calmthout, some sixteen miles from Antwerp, shows a stream winding between banks that are clothed with mossy cushions of grass, yellowish and cool green by turns, and interrupted by spots of sandy ground. It is bordered on the left by a stretch of heath, over which approaches the distant figure of a woman carrying a faggot of sticks. She is coming from a wood that crowns a low sand hill. On the horizon appears a strip of sea bounded by whitish cliffs. Lying over them are horizontal layers of mauve, rosy-yellow and white clouds, above which are larger volumes of rosy-white vapor breaking into blue.

PANEL

SKETCHED in freely and vigorously but with an abundant suggestion of natural facts, the scene represents a foreground of yellowish, olive-colored grass, strewn with gray and drab boulders and interspersed with tufts of reddish-brown grass. It slopes down from the left, cutting across another undulation of similar formation which approaches from the right. In the distance beyond their intersection lies a darker mound of slaty-purplish hue, the top of which, like the elevation on the right, shows a few scanty trees. Over the horizon lie horizontal streaks of creamy-white cloud-tufts, which are succeeded above by larger masses of drab and dove-colored vapor.

Height, 11¾ inches ; Length, 16 inches.

PANEL

THE left of the foreground is occupied by a grove of trees whose drab-gray trunks, flecked with brown, cast diagonal shadows across the carpet of grass. The latter is broken up with scattered spaces of sandy soil that catch the slanting light. Here two figures are disposed, the one seated, the other reclining. Over on the right four women are grouped in attitudes of reverence around a crucifix which surmounts a base composed of three steps. The high shaft intersects an expanse of water bounded by cliffs, while the figure at the top is projected against the greenish pale-blue sky. The women's costumes are distinguished by touches of white, black and rosy crimson. Two other persons in black and white, which suggest a priest and acolyte, are moving away in the background of the group.

IN the afterglow of a sky, whose scattered clouds of cream are flecked with rose, obscurity is gathered over the landscape. Its foreground presents a shallow stream in which a dull red ox is standing. It is harnessed to a cart piled with hay or grass which is being loaded by a man who stands on top assisted by another pitching from the ground. To the left of this group a shepherdess is seated on a fallen tree-trunk with her flock beside her while two of the sheep and a goat stand in the water. THE cottage, with its thatched roof, is seen embowered in apple trees, at the top of an elevation on the right of the composition, the smoke from its single chimney showing gray against a background of oaks. The slope is composed of sandy soil, irregularly spotted with boulders and tussets of coarse grass. Toward the right of it grows a bush, covered with pink and creamy blossoms, near the approach to a wooden foot-bridge which spans a brook. A girl is crossing it, dressed in a white cap and waist and a bright blue skirt. Her figure is seen against a low, grassy slope, crowned with trees, the olive-green foliage of which is interrupted by another mass of rose-cream blossoms, growing on a tall stem. The sky is filled with volumes of rosy lavender and warm white cloud. THE scene represents an Oriental reception hall, open on the left with a portico, supported by columns. The low, slanting rays of the sun pour through it, flecking fantastically the necks, cheeks and costumes of three dancing girls and the richly-apparelled groups of spectators. One girl, in a full white skirt, is serpentine in the dance alone, while the other two are circling round together. Two lute players are seated in the shadow behind them. The right of the scene is occupied by gentlemen, reclining on low divans, behind which is a row of standing women. A fisher girl is seated in profile, shading her eyes as she scans the sea for a sight of the returning fishing boats. Two others are side by side, the one turning her head to talk to the other, whose face is toward us. They are being intently watched by a fisher-youth, who rests his chin on his hand, as he sits on a basket filled with nets. Two empty baskets are lying in front of the group.
